Project: Our team is working on a POS system, building an interactive web-based application that will help customers place orders online for small-scale businesses simultaneously working on time management, and delivering the best quality fresh food. When a customer going to place an order it will show how much time to prepare each item and at the end of the order and it shows the time customer is able to pick up that order. All so we are going to provide the report-generating capability for the restaurant owner which then the restaurant can have all the details of the customers and orders which other food ordering systems are not provided.
